

How do horses move?

Start your search for clues in the Maktoum Gallery Of The Thoroughbred on the first floor of the Trainer's House.

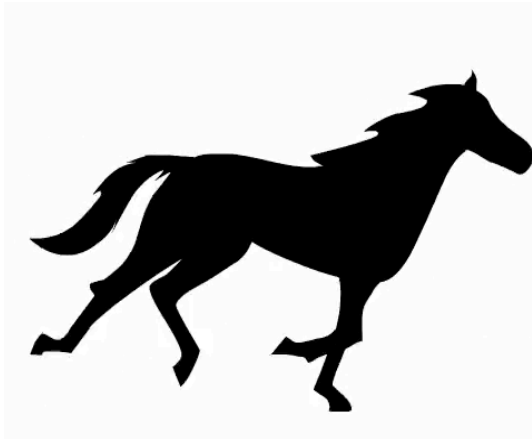

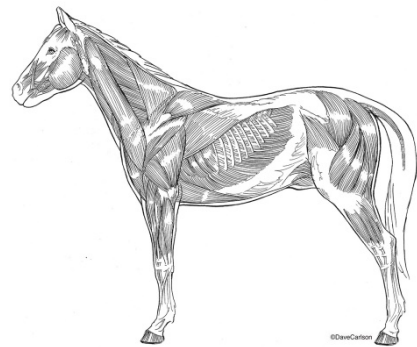

Can you find a painting of a horse with legs stretched out like this?

Do you think this is what happens?

Eadweard Muybridge was a photographer. He wanted to explore how horses move. How did he do this?

Look through the zoetrope. Does a galloping horse ever have all four feet off the ground at the same time?

Enjoy our film about the Thoroughbred to find out more about how horses move.

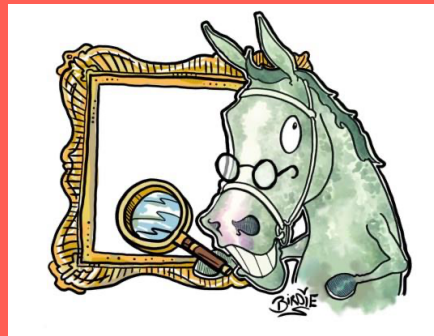

George Stubbs painted more life-like pictures of horses. Can you find his paintings?

You will find some in the Packard Galleries of Palace House. You will also find a copy of his book about horse anatomy.

Surprising Science Gallery Trail:

How do horses move?

National Horse Racing Museum

www.nhrm.co.uk

Registered charity number 283656

Quality Badge awarded by

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL ENGLAND

